

Media Release

17 July 09

A Szencorp Group Company

ECS supports indigenous football players

Energy Conservation Systems (a Szencorp group company) was proud to sponsor the Melbourne Football Club's latest Women of Melbourne event held last night at the MCG – 'The Long Journey'.

The Long Journey recognised the Club's links to indigenous players and the part they play in the game and the Club. The event also launched an exciting initiative: the Inaugural Indigenous Scholarship.

The scholarship's introduction will help the Club to bring an indigenous player – who has missed out in the National Draft, but who still has potential to make progress in the game – to Melbourne to gain experience with the Club's VFL affiliate, the Casey Scorpions. It is an initiative particularly inspired by Melbourne's own Aaron Davey, whose story of success from perseverance, and passion for this project, has helped to see it come to fruition.

Founder and owner of Energy Conservation Systems and Szencorp, as well as Melbourne Football Club director, Peter Szental, said he was delighted to be involved in The Long Journey.

"We are extremely proud to join forces with the Women of Melbourne to make The Long Journey an integral part of the Melbourne Football Club," he said.

The special guest and compere for The Long Journey was Ernie Dingo, who is the host of 'The Great Outdoors', as well as being made a member of the Order of Australia (AM) in 1990 for his services to the performing arts. He was also a selector for the AFL's Indigenous Team of the Century in 2005.

Energy Conservation Systems (ECS) has been an Australian leader for more than 26 years in energy and water management for commercial buildings and non-residential property. ECS provides a range of tailored, engineered solutions that help companies reduce their carbon footprint and become energy and water efficient.

ENDS

For more information or to arrange a photo or interview contact:

Merrin Morrison

Public Affairs Manager

Szencorp / Energy Conservation Systems

Mobile: 0400 829 601

Email: merrin.morrison@szencorp.net